01/07/20: Harness Off-the-Shelf Mine Countermeasures Solutions

<https://www.esc.guide/post/01-07-20-harness-off-the-shelf-mine-countermeasures-solutions>

A great deal of ink has been spilled regarding the military technology arms race between the United States and its peer and near-peer competitors. While opinions differ as to who currently fields the best military equipment, few would argue that the technological edge the United States once held over its potential adversaries is eroding. The Department of Defense (DoD) wants to leverage emerging and disruptive technology to ensure warfighters have an edge in combat.

01/07/19: Novel Concepts for Amphibious Force Resupply

<https://www.esc.guide/post/01-07-19-novel-concepts-for-amphibious-force-resupply>

The United States continues to place a premium on amphibious forces as part of its global response capabilities. Unmanned surface vessels have recently been tested which offer a significant advance in the ability of amphibious forces to conduct important ship-shore resupply from standoff distances.

<https://www.esc.guide/post/16-07-21-from-aspiration-to-combat-capability-unmanned-systems-integrated-battle-problem-21>

The U.S. Navy is committed to integrating unmanned systems in the Fleet for a host of reasons. This is seen in the Navy's official Force Structure Assessment, as well as in a series of "Future Fleet Architecture Studies." In each of these studies: one by the Chief of Naval Operations Staff, one by the MITRE Corporation, and one by the Center for Strategic and Budgetary Assessments, the proposed Navy future fleet architecture had large numbers of air, surface, and subsurface unmanned systems as part of the Navy force structure.

<https://www.esc.guide/post/23-07-21-from-aspiration-to-combat-capability-unmannedsystems-integrated-battle-problem-21>

The U.S. Navy is committed to integrating unmanned systems in the Fleet for a host of reasons. This is seen in the Navy's official Force Structure Assessment, as well as in a series of "Future Fleet Architecture Studies." In each of these studies: one by the Chief of Naval Operations Staff, one by the MITRE Corporation, and one by the Center for Strategic and Budgetary Assessments, the proposed Navy future fleet architecture had large numbers of air, surface, and subsurface unmanned systems as part of the Navy force structure.

UMS 655 DC Fishing

<https://www.esc.guide/post/ums-655-dc-fishing>

The UMS 655 DC Fishing boat will satisfy avid fishermen and connoisseurs of comfortable recreation on the water. The boat is equipped with a traditional bow fishing platform with an increased volume aerator and a storage locker for six fishing rods in the cockpit. The aft seat, which is a part of the aft fish platform, is equipped with a quickly removable backrest.

This allows you to comfortably accommodate passengers without losing a large fish platform. UMS 655 DC Fishing is equipped with a convertible type awning, which is stored in a special locker of the aft fish platform. This makes unfolding the awning much faster and easier in bad weather. The boat easily goes to plane at full load with a 150 h.p. engine.
